SCAM COMPANY

On 01/24/2023, I ordered a bodysuit shapewear advertised on Facebook and paid thru PayPal. After receiving 10 "status change notifications" over the next 6 weeks, I finally my shipment and it contained 2 flimsy cleaning cloths. For weeks I was in email communication with this company. They continually requested more information such as copies of the invoice, the shipping label, the received product labels, etc., which I provided. In the end, they said that I RECEIVED WHAT I ORDERED and PayPal closed the resolution claim while I was out of the country.

DO NOT ORDER FROM THIS COMPANY YOU WILL BE SORRY

I ordered a sweatshirt (I'd know it comes from the USA, but it's coming from Hong Kong. I ordered an XXL, it's a more medium very thin material, I paid almost $40 they have not offered to let me return for a full refund, only want to give me a max of $5 and to keep the product.. This company is a joke scammer, they need to stop these people!

Cross Body Bag

I paid a lot for this item but what I received is worth about $5. The strap is so flimsy that it broke first time I used it. The phone compartment is too small to fit a fairly small iPhone , and the zipper itself , you have to unzip one side of the bag to be able to unzip the top to get stuff out. Badly designed, sheeply made but cost me $40ish. Don't buy from this company .

Scam on products

They advertised a set of eyeliners with all colors and I ordered two and they sent two brown pencils. At check out there was no option to pick a color. If an item I will noticed it was a pencil. Unfortunately PayPal does nothing but play along with them. PayPal is not to trust either.

Never received the product!!!

I ordered two body shapers May 1 , the website was luck wish zone.. Before submitting the purchase it said it would be delivered between the 05-9th. It is now May 22 and i never got tracking info, shipping date or any invoice. They debited the money from my account and i only received a receipt through pay pal.

Silver ring

I ordered a silver and turquoise ring. The ad showed how beautiful it was. The silver was so shiny you could see your reflection. What they sent me was a piece of junk. The inside was all pitted and the outside was rough and unfinished. They offered to give me $3.50 refund. But sending it back would be way more than the refund. Plus I would probably never get the refund. Ugh.
I've contacted the company and PayPal and no far no satisfaction.

I ordered disposable salon capes on 07/20/2020 and didn't receive them until 09/02/2020. The order said Express shipping in 2 to 10 days and they were in stock in the US. At least I sent them numerous emails canceling the order and they told me they couldn't because the order already shipped. More lies! Don't order from them. I finally got my capes but they were folded in bulk (not pleatcloth) and they were very late. Also, the quality wasn't there. I will never order from this company again.

AMGT TECHNOLOGY CO.,LIMITED very tricky and fraud company. In one of their advertisement they were selling 4 pair fish for price of one for $19.95 + shipping. I placed order but got only one instead. I returned item back with tracking. They got item back but they refuse give money back through paypal so I had dispute with bank. Fake advertisement to get more money. If I don't get money refund my next move is file complaint with Better Business Bureau. Scammers like these shouldn't be in business.

I ordered a bathroom shelf to put in my shower. It was supposed to stick to the wall..It didn't. It was totally useless. PayPal is an active corporator in this fraud. They demand that you return the product to China which costs three times more than the product is worth. PayPal gets their commission and the company in China continues this scam. PayPal is the problem and should not be used for any products. They are bigger thieves than these scammers in China.

This! company is fraudulent. Opened a claim with Paypal to get my money back because I ordered a product back in April 2020 and still have not received my item. They responded that the item was delivered by my local logistics company and when I contact them they informed me that they did not deliver any packages to my address.
Do NOT ORDER ANY PRODUCTS OFF OF FACEBOOK OR SOCIAL MEDIA SITES. they are all shipped out of China and they do not guarantee you will receive your item.

Returned the items to China, but the address was bogus. Contacted paypal for refund, but denied. This company is a Fraud and PayPal is useless. Reading the reviews, paypal knew about this company is a fraud and still use them. Watch out for PayPal too!

This company is a fraud. When the country is in a pandemic and they are offering items that you need, scam you for extra shipping money and the product arrives months after it was promised and they don't refund your money. Then, you contact them and the woman they have working for them is a joke. She makes things up, say you sent photos when you didn't etc. FRAUD, FRAUD, FRAUD! Stay away from them. They are a joke!

How do I open a dispute with a seller when a purchase goes wrong?

You can open a dispute in the Resolution Centre of your PayPal account within 180 days of payment if:
•You don't receive the item OR service
•You receive an item but it's significantly different than the description on eBay or on the seller's website (or you receive a totally different product).

By opening a dispute, you can communicate directly with your seller to work out a problem transaction.

If you reach an agreement with the seller you can close the dispute. If you're still not happy with the result, you can escalate the dispute into a claim. Paypal will review the claim and decide on reimbursement.

These steps apply to Personal accounts. If you have a Business account, please log in to see the steps that apply to you.

To open a dispute:
1.Log in to your PayPal account.
2. Click on the transaction and use the resolve a problem option at the bottom of that details page.

Note:
•Generally buyers must wait at least 7 days from the date of payment to escalate a dispute for an item not received
•Where an item has not been received, please ensure you have given the seller enough time before opening a dispute

Do not close the dispute until you have a refund or your item.
If a seller states that they can't refund until you have closed the dispute don't believe them.
Escalate the dispute to a claim within 20 days (before it times out), if you need Paypal to get involved.

If you lose because the seller provides a fake tracking number then post back here for more advice.
If the item arrives and its not what you ordered / not as described then make sure you change the dispute quickly from non receipt. If the dispute times out before you can change it then contact customer services to open a second dispute for the new reason.

Activate the below link in case you have to return the item at Paypals request (or the correct one for your country as this is the U.S link).
https://www.paypal.com/us/webapps/mpp/returns

If that does not work then if you funded your paypal payment via a card then contact your card issuer and see if they will issue a chargeback.

Advice is voluntary.
Kudos / Solution appreciated.

Description
Ordered a Christmas Elf Kit on October 24th through a Facebook ad from Banbain Trade Co. They send fake tracking emails from an email bi-weekly to avoid having to refund via PayPal because PayPals rebuttal is “it’s in transit with shipping” but it’s actually not. I emailed them twice. The second to last shipping email stated the package was in “Charlotte, USA” on Nov 22 and then when I filed a claim through PayPal they sent a totally different tracking website stating the packing was just leaving China (Dec 9).

I purchased an item from this company that never was delivered to my mail box. This company provide a tracking number to Pay Pal saying that the product was delivered. I never received any email from this company providing me the tracking number. Pay Pal closed the case in favor of the company that provided a false information. I'm a long time Pay Pal customer and I have no reason for lie about this matter. Never buy anything from Danceage. They announce in Facebook, be careful with their fake adds.

APPEAL

To submit an appeal on the dispute that was closed, PayPal asks that you obtain a detailed report from the shipper/courier (on their letterhead or some other form of official stationary) that includes the address the seller gave them for the shipment. Or one that includes a statement mentioning your address and saying the item was delivered to a different address.
Check tracking in below link to see where it went.
https://www.17track.net/en

When you have that, contact PayPal via phone (log on to your account and click Contact at the bottom of the page, however that may not be an option at the moment due to covid), or via Facebook (send a Private Message to PayPal) or via Twitter (send a Direct Message to @AskPayPal) and say you want to appeal the denial of the dispute based on the shipper saying the item was delivered to a different address. Once it's submitted (you will be provided with directions on how to do that), the dispute will be reviewed further and a determination will be made.

You also have the option to contact your card issuer if you funded your paypal payment that way and see if they will do a chargeback for you.

Definitely a scam. Charge appeared on my bill without making any order. Paypal however closed the investigation and suggested that the transaction was legit. Now I'm convinced that Paypal does not investigate cases of fraud and choose the easy option of closing the inquiry on the basis that it was legal. Why would they waste time to investigate when it offers no benefit to them. I am so disappointed !!

Also had the information from pay pal that stated my item was delivered which is a lot of nonsense,but as no tracking e-mail was received any information required cannot be obtained.
It appears pay-pal are complicit in this as they seem to ignore all the complaints from people out of pocket.

They clearly know the company is a scam yet allow payments to go to them. I'm wondering if PayPal are losing the money they are refunding?

I ordered from this company they refused to give me a return address eventually opened dispute with Paypal and money was refunded however now DPD cannot deliver the parcel and I cannot get a telephone number to pass on to DPD. Returned the item which cost more than the postage as I couldn't wear it better have some money back than just something hanging in the wardrobe. Paypal needs to block this company

Ordered from this company. Ad said 100% guaranteed refund if unsatisfied for any reason. Product sent was inferior quality and unsuitable. Contacted them - they suggest giving to a friend and refuse to give refund or send details on how to return. Reported to PayPal. How can this company still be affiliated with PayPal when obviously dodgy?

I purchased from this company & was given a fake tracking number. After I started a dispute they finally shipped my product. It was nothing like the description or picture. They offered a full refund if I return the item to ship it back to China it will cost me over 70.00 & the original item was 45.00 with shipping! I've been scammed! I'm really tired of these vendors!

I purchased the watering can solar light set. I approved the amount of $44.95 through PayPal & when the charges came through it was for $55.61. They had added $11.72 for tax. I live in a state where there is no sales tax so I emailed them immediately TWICE' the first just stating that there was no sales tax & the second with a copy of the invoice. With an arrow to my state & one to the tax amount. Had I known that they were made in China I would never have purchased them because every transaction I've made to find later that it came from China has caused a real pain in my backside. The purchase date was May 19, 2022. I've yet to receive a response from them neither has PayPal. DO NOT PURCHASE FROM THIS COMPANY!!

I believe that your State Attorney General would be interested in the collection of state taxes when there are none in your state... That is fraud! Refer to my previous post and contact the FTC and your State Attorney General. Let's at least get heard!

Yes, that is what needs to be done because they are getting away with it. Disappointed in PayPal that they seem to be doing nothing about it and continue to do business with Giske Technology!

I'm new at this so I entered my complaint separately. I did purchase my item off of facebook & yes I have sent it through the PayPal dispute process. I also immediately emailed the company & have gotten no response my next step is going to go through my bank fraud protection division. Had I known that this was a company in China instead of the US I wouldn't have made the purchase

I was scammed. Ad on Facebook for a lovely necklace for my daughter. I had it sent to her directly. She had no idea it was from me as cacd said ' From your Bestie' instead of from your mum. It was also so hideous that my daughter thought it was hate mail from somebody!
I opened a dispute - tracking emails kept saying necklace was coming from United States. When I contacted the seller Giske Network Technology, I was told refund only given if item returned at my expense - to China! I explained all of this in my dispute via resolution centre and the case was closed in buyers favour as apparently I didn't provide valid tracking information!
Supposedly for the return of the mangled chunk of metal!
I am still trying to get a refund. I even contacted the business name that was on the FB ad to alert them that someone was using their website/ business name as a scam front. But I got no reply from them either. That business name was RomanticPeach.com.
I have images saved of everything.

This was received

I have escalated case with PayPal only to receive an email saying the company would issue a full refund but would not cover return shipping charges. Not acceptable!! If PayPal doesn't do anything about it I guess my next step is to file a fraud complaint with my credit card company.

@Rippedoff111

Your credit card would be your best option then because....

In the event of a dispute you choose your seller and not Paypal so you need to bear in mind possible return trackable costs before you go ahead and buy from that seller / country.

Paypal state this >>
IMPORTANT: You may be required to return the item to the seller or other party we specify as part of the settlement of your claim. PayPal Buyer Protection does not entitle you to reimbursement for the return shipping costs that you may incur.

You also have the option to do a chargeback via your card issuer instead of a Paypal dispute if you funded your Paypal payment via a credit card.

Advice is voluntary.

Yes, it's looking like credit card issuer May be the next step. I'm still going to reply to PayPal letting them know that I will not agree to pay for return shipping. The escalation process with PayPal is still open, so...we'll see what happens next. Thank you.

I too got a fake tracking number and I believe a fake website that says the item was delivered, but it was not. I have a locking mailbox so if it was delivered it would have been safe. I've asked for a refund from Giske and they say I need to contact the carrier, which the info is in Chinese so I have no idea who they are, if they even exists. I've opened a case with PayPal and no response yet. I'm also calling my credit card company to report fraud through PayPal.

I would NOT buy anything from Giske Technology they seem to be scammers and unwilling to get involved when something goes wrong. Reading the posts, it appears many have similar issues.

I am asking everyone to file a complaint with the FTC and with your state Attorney Generals office. It is all online and if you start with the FTC (they don't adjudicate but they keep a record of complaints and will investigate. They also have a list of every state's AG and a link to report companies. It is all online and very easy. LETS GET THESE GUYS. I have contacted my State as well as NJ as that is the return mailing address.

Never received my order!!
My order that was paid for via Paypal never arrived and the company has sent some fake info to Paypal saying that the item has been delivered to either myself or an authorised proxy - well, I don't have a proxy!! They are lying, untrustworthy and are stealing from their customers. Disgusted to be charged for an item I did not receive & surprised it will never again buy anything other than from European companies with a good reputation.

I received an email advising my order had been sent with a tracking number. I checked with Royal Mail and was told the tracking number was for an entirely different address. Contacted Journo 3 times and was fobbed off with unhelpful messages. Finally got a refund after 28 days. Will never use this company again. Very rude. I could not help. I am disgusted with both this company and PayPal and advise to never buy anything from them

Proud Scam use previous reviews
As previous reviews. Do not purchase anything from them. They come under various names i ordered phone from cbaybeach.com not knowing it was this company. I have not received gift shows that I ordered in August and shipping number they gave me was false.
I have tried to get a refund from item but they won't answer my emails. I took it up with PayPal but they closed claim even though I told PayPal to look at trustpilot reviews, but as they said they had received evidence that it had been delivered but obviously it hasn't. Also received item Received previous reviews before ordering and they said value of this kit absolute scam if anyone has anyway at getting back at them please let me know.

Don't buy from these people. I placed TWO separate orders, and both were delivered to incorrect addresses. I filed two separate claims with PayPal, but all they did was close the claims and refund the money without any help. To top it off, both items were delivered to wrong addresses didn't seem to phase PayPal at all. No merchandise, and no refund.

Complete scam - do not go anywhere near!!!
Complete scam! I ordered a sweatshirt that never arrived. Despite numerous emails with the company, they continued to fob me off with excuses like 'the item is in customs', 'we're awaiting the tracking number' etc etc. Escalated to PayPal but they were provided with a shipping number that was not the item I ordered. I received a text PayPal has closed the case! I shall be taking the matter up with my bank. I want to see this company closed and removed from PayPal!

Do not buy anything from companies...
Do not buy anything from companies linked to the JINZHOU Network Technology Company. This is a sophisticated scam that exploits the flaws in both Facebook and PayPal's systems. The fact that they have limited resolution processes is easily fooled by the scammers and you will struggle to get a satisfactory result and you will not get your money back. Be warned.

Do not order anything from jinzhou they take your money but don't deliver. I ordered golf shoes they give me a tracking number and they said the parcel had been delivered and signed for by me which I hadn't. I contacted PayPal for refund but they said the parcel had been delivered and denied my claim. I went to the post office delivery depot and they checked the tracking number and said the parcel label only had been scanned at the depot. I contacted PayPal and they said they would look into it but they still denied the claim. I have no faith in PayPal whatsoever. Will think twice about using their services in the future. Scam - do not use!
Same story as everyone else - wish I had read these reviews first. Complete scam, do NOT use this company and you will neither see the item you wished to purchase or your money back ever again. I was very disappointed that PayPal closed my case in favour of the seller who apparently had 'proof' of delivery. Fuming!

Dont order from China dont use paypal
I ordered some DIY Memory boards in december. When they hadn't arrived I contacted the company "Seeds" they fobbed me off saying the package was on it's way. I moved on to contacting paypal and they said I had to wait 30 days before I could claim. PayPal as went through their resolution service. PayPal refused to accept the claim as the seller has stated item was shipped. I have been unable to contact paypal and they have not responded to my emails. Disputed with Beda and feel same way about PayPal. Will never use either again.

Ordered a hoody from an ad on Facebook
Ordered a hoody from an ad on Facebook. All looked genuine and never even considered an issue. After several months still nothing received so I opened a dispute in PayPal. It was then I realised that it was being shipped from China and the tracking number was showing as being in the UK. I contacted PayPal to say the case was closed and that Paypal had awarded favour to the seller as they had provided proof of postage!!! No refund and no item! Third time I googled the company name and saw all these similar stories on trusted pilot.com and that it was a highly sophisticated scam. How can PayPal take sides with a criminal?

1 too have had the same experience as many others with this company. I ordered boots in August which has never arrived despite many emails giving a variety of excuses for the delay. PayPal have denied my claim as a tracking number was given to them by the company which appears to indicate that the order was delivered. I am disgusted that PayPal seem to be so easily misled by a thoroughly dishonest scam company.

I also ordered boots fro. This company in August. Same story. Tracking number saying it had been delivered. Then they told me had been delivered to wrong address was given to them by the company. I have been unable to contact paypal and they have because of covid. They told there was trouble getting new tracking number. Got on to PayPal to get a refund. They refused it saying that it had been delivered according to the tracking number. Never again will I order from a Facebook ad. Total scammers.

Do NOT buy from this company. They used different companies as a UK front on Facebook and then you never receive their goods. I used PayPal and they denied my first claim as they had tracking information showing that my item had been delivered. However, it was not. I then received a text from PayPal saying number was in fact assigned to another parcel delivered to someone else. I forwarded the evidence to PayPal but they still wouldn't accept it. After multiple messages I then contacted my bank who gave me an immediate refund. Strangely enough a separate item ordered at a similar time has now been refunded by PayPal. DO NOT USE THIS COMPANY

Zone Network Technology Co., Limited
Are a scam! The product is faulty and not what is advertised. The videos are not of the product you get.
The company refused a refund then offered £5 back, which is a joke. They actually over charged me by £9 from the advert anyway. They have finally said I can return the item for a refund but I have to pay for the return postage which is £15.99 for a £5 refund. No thank you.I'll never see the product or money again and it'll be further out of pocket.
Please don't waste your money. It's fake advertising & a faulty product.

All I can tell you is that when I received my package it was from a company called Jane in New jersey.
I did some research on google and they are also a fraud. Even the tracking company for may package was fake.
When tracking it since it was taking so long it said it was coming out of Austrial! It was coming from New Jersey!.
Good luck!!!

Their standard replies:
"But as our warehouse checked, the product they sent to you is correct according to your order.
So sorry for the inconvenience that they do not fit you. Will it be possible to give them to others?
They are superior in quality and reasonable in price, and also have been in top-seller in our store for many years."

"But as we checked, the size we sent to you is correct according to your order.

Or maybe you can give it to your friends or family members as gifts.
They will love it!
Your kind understanding would be highly appreciated."

"Thanks for your reply.

As our warehouse checked, the product we sent to you is correct indeed.
If you would like to return, the shipping fee may be very expensive to you.
So how about we refund you 45USD as compensation and you keep the products?"

I ordered 2 pairs of cargo pants from this company a month ago (5/30/2022). I was receiving regular updates as to shipping until the 15th of June, then nothing. I have written emails and received apologies but no updates. I've filed a complaint with PayPal. I think this company is a huge scam and I'm out $85.00.
Has anyone had any success with PayPal complaints against this company?

@Jekall

Another of these?

Chinese Web Sites or on Social Media ads easy to spot (once you know the below signs) so buyer beware.

1. No return address on the returns policy. The site will look as if its in your country (where they despatch goods from) but they will ask for returns to go back to China (returns depot) at a shipping cost often more than the item is worth.
2. No contact telephone number. if you click on contact the most you will get is webmail or an email address.
3. Rarely company address information.
4. Great pictures of items at bargain prices that turn out to be tat.
5. Fake reviews.
6. Google and you can often see previous company names as they change them once enough claims roll in and Paypal stop them using their services and start over.
7. Send fake tracking numbers to win item non receipt of item claims.

How do I open a dispute with a seller when a purchase goes wrong?

You can open a dispute in the Resolution Centre of your PayPal account within 180 days of payment if:
•You don't receive the item OR service
•You receive an item but it's significantly different than the description or you receive a totally different product.

By opening a dispute, you can communicate directly with your seller to work out a problem transaction.

If you reach an agreement with the seller you can close the dispute. If you're still not happy with the result, you can escalate the dispute into a claim. Paypal will review the claim and decide on reimbursement.

These steps apply to Personal accounts. If you have a Business account, please log in to see the steps that apply to you.

To open a dispute:
1.Log in to your PayPal account.
2. Click on the transaction and use the resolve a problem option at the bottom of that details page.

Note:
•Generally buyers must wait at least 7 days from the date of payment to escalate a dispute for an item not received
•Whene an item has not been received, please ensure you have given the seller enough time before opening a dispute

Do not close the dispute until you have a refund or your item.
If a seller states that they can't refund until you have closed the dispute don't believe them.
Escalate the dispute to a claim within 20 days (before it times out), if you need Paypal to get involved.

If you lose because the seller provides a fake tracking number then post back here for more advice.
If the item arrives and its not what you ordered / not as described then make sure you change the dispute quickly from non-receipt. If the dispute times out before you can change it then contact customer services to open a second dispute for the new reason.
If that does not work then if you funded your paypal payment via a card then contact your card issuer and see if they will issue a chargeback.

Advice is voluntary.

I, too, ordered a pair of cargo pants on May 27th, and soon after I changed my mind, so I sent e-mail to request to cancel/refund, which was May 29th. The customer service team, which no one ever add their personal name as they do not want to be known because they are not legit, replied back to tell me "it's too late" when I know that the package was NOT sent out yet because that's what they told me!. Yet, they tried so hard to convince me that the product will be great, and I would love them. The shipment took over a month, and when they finally arrived, I did not like them at all. So contacted the customer service team again, asking for the procedure on how to return them for refund. I told them that I felt it was not my responsibility to pay for the return shipment as I requested to cancel the order before they were shipped out. They kept replying back saying they trust their products are great, and they had a nerve to ask me to give them away to someone who could use them. First, it is NOT my responsibility to find someone to give them to (or sell to, and second, I want my money back for something I would not use. So, again, I requested for the procedure on how to return and refund. They responded back saying that they were dispopaointed to hear that I was not happy with the product and they would discuss it with the production (manufacturer) department. They NEVER replied back to discuss the refund portion at all.

So I have just filed a dispute. If they want the pants back, they can come get them as far as I am concerned. I wish I had read your review about this company before I even made my order. I am leaving my experience here so that others can know about this company.

Husdow Technology Co., Limited, does not practice ethics, and they refuse to own their problems. You will find no person's name on the e-mail. This is because they are trying to hide and they cannot stand behind their products and be responsible. If anyone is thinking about buying anything from this company, DONT.

Not a good idea to open disputes with your card issuer and paypal.
As soon as paypal get informed you have opened one with your card issuer they will close your paypal one.
If your card refuses a refund you would then have no option to open a paypal dispute again.

Here's the problem, when you try to return them, they want to charge you $35 to do so. OR they will give you. $3. Yes, that's right $3. and you can keep the piece of crap pants they sent you.
Mine were donated to the Goodwill.
Paypal would not stand behind this purchase. I ordered pants, I got pants. What's the problem???
Good luck.

Same as everyone else is reporting

Same as everyone else is reporting. My wife order pants, took almost 3 months to arrive. Pants were not what she ordered. Attempted to return, but no return or refund policy. Here's some advice to people leaving the same problem, contact your bank and process a chargeback. When money starts to get zipped away from them, they'll change their tune.

No return policy follow through from company

Ordered 3 pairs of pants. Once they arrived they were of terrible quality and totally not what I expected to purchase, and since then I've been given the runaround from the company about how to return them. Initially I was told I'd be refunded for the postage to return them and Im fine doing so but they will not give me an address to return them to they just keep stalling and muddy-ing the waters with suggestions of what I could do with the pants vs returning them. At Im looking for is an address to ship them back to. Company has horrible customer service. Don't buy from them.

Stay Away!

It took over a month to receive the cargo pants I ordered and this was only after I escalated the issue with PayPal. They sent me a tracking link I could not use as it connected to a Chinese website. When the pants arrived they were too short! Their length is misleading as they do not measure from the inseam and this is not indicated on the website. Now they won't answer my requests for refund or even answer my emails. I will bet TSBJA

Poor service and bogus claims from the beginning!
Took forever to get the 2 pants I ordered and I never only received them over 2 months later because I complained about it. Once I got the pants they did not fit based on the size ordered and they are 5 inches above my ankles! I tried to return and they said I couldn't return because they sent me what I ordered??? When I tried to go onto their site, it says we are CLOSED TIS SERIOUSLY! It says "The store is currently closed. Please contact the store administrator to open the store..." No more words but a lesson learned. No more ordered from any social media sites.

Items not received, suspicious discrepancies, false advertising

Have not received my items yet as shipping has taken over a month- however, upon inspection of the website, they use photos from other clothing sites to pad out the product pages. They use a strange delivery service (24service.vip?) which claims the package is coming from Ireland. Additionally, when charged for my purchase, it was deposited to "Xiushui Technology Co. Limited" and connected to a very strange and suspicious email account that ends in 163chinaheart.com.
For example, on their cargo pants, they have photos of models wearing pants in a variety of colors, but the actual product only comes in one color. They also claim to have pockets and no back pockets, and a variety of more, but none of these actually have any photos of their real product, obviously dropshipped from China.

Very scared to get my product now due to the discrepancies. I would stay far away from this business.

I would give it a zero if that was possible. The products were to be from Sweden. I received a tracking number showing it was from Sweden. When I asked how long the products would be in Wuxa, NY I was told it was coming from the number one and one showed from China. When they arrived, the product was absolutely awful. They did not want to refund, the continue saying the manufacturer has checked twice and that is the product I ordered. Stay away from this company, they are a fraud!!!

My pants showed up after waiting 4....
My pants showed up after waiting 4 weeks, certainly not delivered for Mother's Day. The material is so cheap, not what was advertised. The sizing is way off. I wanted to take a medium but ordered large to be on the safe side. The pants come to the top of my waistline and the legs don't fit around my calves. I'm 5'6" and weigh 140 lbs, now they are offering me $5.00 for my trouble! Not the $57.65 USD they took from my account. I'll be more careful of myself for falling in the advertisement. I don't shop very often on-line, I won't shop ever again until I do my research on companies. I'm feeling taken and stupid.

I would rate it a zero if I could.
I would rate it a zero if I could.
After reading positive reviews on Facebook, and believing that the company was based in England, I ordered 3 dresses. The sizing of the dresses couldn't be any smaller. I'm a size 8 and ordered a size large. The size 2XL fits me. The dress is barely fit! Not only was the sizing poor, the quality of the fabric was, for want of a better phrase, 'cheap and nasty'. I have just been told that there is no means of return/refund because they sent the size I ordered. As other reviewers have said, I feel as if I have been scammed. It's criminal that they can get away with this.

AVOID THIS AWFUL COMPANY AT ALL COSTS
If I could give this shower -10 ⭐ I would.
Dealt with Winterbottom, thought they were an American company, obviously not. Ordered a shower, 3 days after ordering I got an email from the advertised co. cottonflower, I ordered cottonflower and my order confirmation from them stated cottonflower.
The shirts arrived while the tracking said they were still at US Customs and what did arrive was 7 very sheer spandex/polyester shirts. I've exchanged numerous emails with them, they've refused to refund and have told me that I should contact cottonflower all showing the material to be cotton/linen and Winterzation insisting their warehouse have shipped the correct order.
In the last email from them they offered me US$5 compensation, if you read other reviews you'll find a common thread with that amount.
I'm not holding out any hope of a resolution so please avoid this company at all costs.

This company takes your money and runs. They provide you with an unusable products which takes forever to receive. They will only refund your money if you return the product which they know you won't because it costs way more than you paid to return it. So they say sorry but without a return you don't get a refund. Total scam!!!! DO NOT BUY ANYTHING FROM THIS COMPANY!!!

This company is just the plot Ordered two dresses in my usual size. The items arrived 2 weeks later and were too tight around hips and the quality of the material is very poor and cheap looking and nothing like as on the pictures. I complained but they will not accept returns nor give refunds at all. They insist that they sent the right size. We all know that sizing varies so much from company to company and that's is on the label. Total SCAM!!!! DO NOT BUY. Really are the worst I came across!!!! Just lost £4777 Very very angry!!! 😡😡😡

Oh no
Oh no, I looked for reviews for monsuk.com before placing an order and couldn't find any. Big mistake.
Firstly, They were charged for the tax, watch for that guys, the email confirmation which actually has disappeared from my emails said size figure they took over £20 more from PayPal I raised it with them they have said I will get a refund which I am still waiting for. The two bras I ordered are massive even after using their own size guide I am a 34d
I also ordered two dresses, both the same size one is loooooo big the other too small! The fabric is so thin!
I did search for the company and saw it had a uk office so assumed it was the uk I was purchasing from. Nope wrong it appears the goods have come from China, I would never of purchased if I have known and found these reviews before I ordered. I am now trying to return the items for a refund. Wish me luck guys!
Luckily I paid via PayPal I hope they can help if all else fails.

I have also been scammed by this apparent company, I purchased a cross made from horse shoes ready for my daughter's birthday, I received fake parcel tracking information, I only realised I had been scammed when I realised that it would not take over 2 weeks for my parcel to get from Townsville to south Australia, and then I thought why would anything come in to Australia in Townsville anyway. I feel really stupid, but now I will never order anything I see advertised on FACEBOOK AGAIN, probably not anything online again at all, apparently we CANNOT TRUST ANYONE OR ANYTHING.

This company is horrendous! I purchased a National lampoon Christmas set in October 2022 and used PayPal for payment. I did not receive the item until a month later and it was only a part of the order. The main house was broken. Took pictures and sent many emails to a lora-gorgeous company name which was the company name on the email I received with order confirmation and invoice. They gave me the run around and wanted to send me replacement. I said no since I only received partial shipment and the quality was horrible. I finally received the second part in December. I then filed a dispute through PayPal, after much back and forth messages, the company finally agreed to give me a refund if I sent the items back and paid for shipping. I had no idea this items was shipping from overseas, I would have never ordered it in the first place and it came from Ireland. In returning the item, I had to ship it to Hong Kong and pay $80 bucks to do so. PayPal said I needed to upload my return receipt with tracking #, which I did. Last I heard, the item was attempted to be delivered on January 16th to the address I was given through PayPal. I have not received any refund as of yet and received a message from PayPal that they denied my dispute and closed my case which made no sense to me as I did everything I was supposed to do and this company had not. I tried emailing this company and have had no response, so I just sent another message to PayPal trying to file another dispute. I feel like... Read more

I ordered bras from them. Only received half of the order. Bras were very cheap and nasty. Size completely wrong. Cheap material. No option anywhere to send back for refund.
Con artists.

As the lady above. I ordered bras from them. They were cheap and did not fit. There was no chance to return and get a refund. I contacted 3 times. They kept saying I'd ordered the correct size and even said that couldn't I give them to a friend? I am very annoyed. Con Artists. Not a legitimate trader.

I ordered a " Angel Aura Heart Shaped Rainbow Crystal Cluster- 1 PC" It said seller info "deaOuiyWyyhhn Co. Ltd. It cost $33.34 total.Not a LOT of money; however, the thing was total JUNK!!! The picture looked like a shell cut in half, heart shaped, with red crystal type rocks in the middle. What was delivered was PLASTER of Paris attempt at heart shape with red painted plaster of paris to look like rocks!!!!! I wouldn't even purchase this in the Dollar store!!! I filed with Paypal, which was a joke because if you file a dispute with the credit card company, they will do NOTHING for you!!! I had copies of emails back and forth in which the company that sent it offered me $3. refund, then $6. max.I sent all this plus pictures of this junk to Capital One CC. They contacted me back and said the company told them they told me there were NO REFUNDS!!!! What a bald faced lie. There wasn't any communication between us other than a paypal receipt. Nothing in the box when it shipped either!!!! There is nothing on line to check for a web site or rules or anything!!! I am not done with Capital One or Paypal!!!

I have also started checking out websites before ordering when I get it off of Facebook!!!!! MOST of the sites are scams and Facebook doesn't seem to give a hoot!!!!!!

These people are nothing but a bunch of scammers I ordered a digital tape measure from them and they sent me some little cheap piece of crap $41 or something like that and they're offering me $6 and keep the one they sent me I already have one like they sent me I don't need another one I want my $41 back and they're giving me crap about it I reported him to PayPal and now they're saying you must return the one to get your full return full refund and the address that was sent from is a scam because it's a Amazon warehouse back east somewhere and that address is being used by scammers beware of this company stay as far away from them as you can.

Within hours of ordering a product from this company from an advert on FB I was hacked … after reading these comments I guess I won't receive what I ordered if any thing at all … and they charged more than was advertised .

I also ordered bras from this company. What a joke. The bras are flimsy no support and do not fit. I requested to return them and have gotten such a runaround. Finally I am offered a $10 refund on a $52 purchase. PayPal needs to step up to the plate since there are so many complaints against this company and not agree to use PayPal as a payment method. I'm stuck with these bras, which by the way they also told me to give them to a friend, what friend would want these cheap bras? Lesson learned and I'm out my money.

I too ordered Bras from this company that have not arrived. I'm guessing that after reading these reviews I will likely Not recieve them! Why is PayPal still letting this company use them for payment they should be banned after all the negative reviews! It's not good advertising for PayPal & certainly no good for customers to be scammed in this way!

This company operates bate and switch campaigns. They show video ads representing one product while delivering another low-quality product. Once you file a claim, they require you to send the product back to an address in China, and the cost of shipping is almost as must as the cost of this worthless product! A Fraudulent Business - NEVER BUY FROM THEM or ANY AFFILIATED COMPANY

I was scammed by the same company under and they were using the name Anhotpursuit. If you view their site, for the item I bought all the 5 star reviews are dated 10/30/22. I submitted a review and it never has appeared on their site. I sent over 16 emails to their support team and no results other than no returns. They also overcharged me by $17.05. I have reported them to Facebook and PayPal. BEWARE!!!!!

I got scammed by this company as well over a handbag in November. They kept sending me updates through shipping24 which is a Chinese shipping company. Last heard of out of Customs and in Adelaide in early December. Why it would be there as it should have not gone to another state entirely. Now they are telling that the freight company is upgrading and unable to give the information to them. They advertised on Facebook back in October and I am not happy to be out all up almost $78 A. Paypal has been advised.

I too was scammed. I bought a small lamp that took more than 2 months to arrive and when it did, the box was dented and the lamp was crushed in a bunch of pieces. It was tiny compared to what was on the web page. I just wanted a credit back and they refused. They offered to replace it, but I knew there was no way it would arrive in usable condition. I put in a report with PayPal and they just had the vendor email me again. They offered me $6 and I paid $40!

I also have been scammed by this company.

I noticed right away that there was something wrong with the price and asked for the order to be cancelled.

This was within 5-10 minutes of making the order.

I send several e-mails telling them to cancel. Obviously I received First, they made a computer mistake and had to refund me $17.57 CDN.

I did receive the leak proof underwear and it's inferior quality and very small.

I don't seem to be able to get my $70.29CDN back. They suggest that I give them away.

I was also scammed by Uasellitipa co. ltd for the light up ball that you pitch up and it comes back to you. Took months to get the first one I ordered. Then my grandson wanted one so I placed another order. Every time I entered my card number, it kept saying try again. I did it about 13 times and finally gave up. Next thing I know, I have 13 charges on my bank account. I called the bank right away and they were able to stop all but one that had gone through. I learned my lesson for sure!

Summary

Judge Dredd 04/16/2023 at 02:30 AM
Several customers have reported dissatisfaction with the company Zero-Miracle Network Limited, mainly due to substandard products, delayed deliveries, and poor customer service. A common issue mentioned is the sizing of the products, with many stating that items are too small and not as described. Some customers also mentioned receiving the wrong items or not receiving their orders at all.

Furthermore, users have experienced difficulties obtaining refunds, with the company often offering only a small portion of the original purchase price. This has led many customers to file disputes with PayPal or their credit card companies to seek reimbursement. Several customers have questioned the legitimacy of the company and its association with PayPal, expressing concerns about potential scams.

Overall, the general consensus among customers is that Zero-Miracle Network Limited is not a reliable or trustworthy company, with many advising others to avoid making purchases from them. Some customers specifically warned against buying items advertised on Facebook, as these ads might be linked to the company.

I have attached an image of the item I received. No way will this fit me. How can I get a refund and how can this company be closed down and forbidden to scam people like they are doing?
It makes us not want to order from any company online for fear of getting scammed like this.
Thank you for your help.

Send you tracking info that looks real but isn't. Item shows up in states with postage v due even though you paid postage. Wait long enough & so can't dispute with PayPal.

PayPal is working in my case now but b they don't fight as hard as yz cr credit card company does. Beware of this company. They also go under Teo other names Clearanom (?)

Bought 2 bras from them for $56 USD. When I realised the conversion made it over $100 AUD, immediately requested it to be cancelled. They refused, saying it had already been shipped. When I finally received it, the product was substandard and cup sizes only big enough for peas. They refused my money back, so got PayPal involved. They then admitted I was entitled to a refund. Finally got to send it 2 days before final PayPal dispute date, expecting a refund. So never escalated with PayPal. Package was returned 6 weeks later advising the address does not exist. They are nothing but a bunch of lying scammers.

I ordered a pair of "Carla Orthotic sandals back in May. I received them today and they are totally rubbish. No name on the sandal, no size and the back strap, held with velcro won't even go round my ankle (I have ordinary ankles and only ordered them for a dropped arch). They look nothing like the pic and are utterly rubbish. I've emailed them through paypal but will now raise it through the resolution process. I'm usually so careful ordering online but this one really fricked me. I think they came from the US but seem to be Chinese. So annoyed. Paid £36 with taxes.

I received a poor quality item, nothing like the description and video they used. I asked for a refund. They refused...politely. Got Paypal involved who seem to be supportive of their scam. Paypal told me I had to return the good to China from the UK to get my refund. The cost to return was about the same as the purchase price. About time Paypal cut off their finance. Buyers protection my arse!

@Paultm

A 5 second google search before you paid from them would have shown you awful reviews.

I'm normally pretty good, but this one certainly caught me out 😔 Surely PayPal should ban or stop the account with all these issues

@Paultm

Paypal would not be able to check every individual seller / merchant / company in over 200 countries worldwide that adds paypal to their website to accept payments.

So they give some buyer and some seller protection. However that protection can never be a 100% coverall so you need to read it so you can risk assess your transactions.

They do stop bad companies from using Paypal when enough claims start rolling in.
However as a lot of them are in Asia / China then its easy for them to just start over with a new name, so stopping them does not really do anything.

Advice is voluntary.
Kudos / Solution appreciated.

Hello @Temp20230925c

Welcome to the PayPal Help Community and thanks for posting!

Sorry to hear the issue with your purchase. I understand that you're looking to return the item. PayPal protection policy covers the buyers and sellers for all eligible transactions. To be fair to both parties, PayPal ask the buyer to return the item which is significantly different from its description to the seller to process the refund. I would recommend you to get in touch with the PayPal support team about the false return address. You can find the contact options to reach the team here.

Regards,
Bindu
